OUT ON THE LIMB

with George Vierhus

THERE IS AN ASHTRAY in the Homer Hyde household to which members of the family have become quite attached.

It is not because it is unique or distinctive as far as ashtrays go but rather because it was missing for a short time and its return came about in a rather unusual manner.

The "tale of the missing ashtray" now provides the Hydes with a dandy conversational piece for guests as well as hearty chuckles for themselves.

It all came about when Katherine needed some article for a rummage sale. She decided to contribute the aforementioned ashtray to the worthy cause.

While browsing at this same rummage sale, Mrs. Maude Hyde, Katherine's mother-in-law, not knowing about Katherine's contribution saw the ashtray displayed.

She assumed that it was a match to the one that Homer and Katherine had at home.

So she bought it.

Subsequently she wrapped it and presented it to her son and daughter-in-law.

You can imagine the expressions on Katherine's and Homer's faces when they unwrapped it.

And on Mrs. Hyde's when she learned the details.

Now you know why they have become "attached" to it.

At least until the next rummage sale comes along.

THOSE OF YOU WITH fairly long memories may recall that we have had a lot of good-natured fun with an old friend of ours, Wes Smith of Carmichael, an avid reader of this column, over his use of the word "gibbosity" in describing this column in a note to us.

Our friend, Wes, is quite a student of semantics. We were not familiar with "gibbosity" and, after looking it up, we suggested that Smith had misused it.

Subsequently, another word-conscious reader submitted that perhaps Wes felt that the word "gibbosity" (a swelling) was applicable.

After getting that much mileage out of Wes's note, we were quite willing to let the matter drop right there.

But we should have known better, as far as Wes was concerned.

SMITH IS RETIRED AND has access to the most unabridged dictionaries in existence. He also has the time for research into all phases of circumlocution of the most antiquated and obsolete variety.

Thus after a lapse of several weeks, we received another note from him.

In it he used 11 words that he really had to reach for. Only four of them were even vaguely familiar to us.

We looked them up and admit that they all are used correctly.

Some of you undoubtedly would score higher than we did.

So test-yourselves.

See how many of the words that are capitalized in the note you can define.

To save you the trouble of checking the dictionary, in the paragraph following the note, appears the definitions of the 11 words. (Don't peek.)

Holy smoke, this really sounds educational!

HERE THEN IS THE note of so many words:

"Dear George:

"Gee, it's kinda nice to see my name in your column! We thought we might see you two 'ere this to chuckle about it.

"Please do not think me a WITLING. I really didn't intend my SPRINGE about the word GIBBOSITY would result in such USUFRUCTS your TWADDLE has been

BY UNANIMOUS VOTE

City Council rejects any merger with Central Fire

By an unanimous vote at a special public hearing held Tuesday, June 13, the City Council ruled that the City of Campbell would retain its own fire department rather than move toward consolidation with the county's Central Fire District.

The action came after more than four hours of discussion, in which the pros and cons of the consolidation issue were aired by city and county staff personnel as well as interested citizens.

The motion to retain the city's fire service came at midnight and was made by Councilman Norm Paul and seconded by Councilman Dean Chamberlin.

The vote ended almost a year of uncertainty stemming from a Council directive for City Manager Bob Stephens to develop a feasibility report on the advantages and disadvantages of consolidation.

MANAGER REPORTS

In his report, which was submitted in October, Stephens concluded that there would be no advantage to consolidation and recommended that the city retain its department.

Chief Curtis J. Kirby, of the Central Fire District, on the other hand, submitted a rebuttal to the city manager's report plus other information advocating consolidation.

Action on the issue, however, had been deferred until June 13.

PROS AND CONS

City Manager Stephens, assisted by acting Fire Chief Gene Borden, presented the case against consolidation at the hearing. Graphs and charts were used by them to emphasize various points.

Stephens and Borden maintained that the city's department now offered services that would not be offered by the central district and submitted also that the central district was supported entirely by a property tax rate for the entire district and that the tax base could vary based on any secession of territory.

On the other hand, part of the city's financing of the fire services comes from sales tax and state subventions, they explained.

Chief Kirby, assisted by Deputy Chief Dick Wall, former Los Gatos fire chief, argued the case for consolidation, maintaining that better service could be rendered and more equipment would be available by consolidation.

After a recess at the close of the presentation by staff personnel, members of the audience were given an opportunity to speak on the subject and also to ask questions. Cards were filled out and submitted to John Ruppel, ad-

NEXT MONDAY

Council acts on budget

Campbell's preliminary $4.3 million budget for 1972-73, as submitted by City Manager Bob Stephens last month, will be on the agenda for approval at the City Council meeting next Monday, June 26, climaxing a series of study sessions in which the city's 215-page fiscal document was examined page by page by the councilmen.

Unless the City Council on Tuesday night (after press time) in the final study session makes major changes, the budget before the Council next Monday is expected to be modified only slightly from that proposed by Stephens.

However, at Tuesday's session the major capital outlay expenditures for the next fiscal year were under scrutiny.

These inlcude two major street projects: (1) improvement of Hamilton Ave. at an estimated cost of $370,000 and (2) improvement of E. Rincon Ave. estimated at $123,000.

Another proposed project is the completion of the engineering wing at the city hall at an estimated cost of $75,000 of which $20,000 is for furnishings.

Under the city manager's

GIFT TO CITY--Last Saturday, a Colorado spruce was presented to the City of Campbell by the Campbell chapter of the Order of DeMolay. The tree was planted on the southeast portion of the city hall lawn off the new north loop street and opposite the fire station.

Members of the DeMolay chapter (above) who participated in the planting of the tree are, left to right, Dave Whitfield, junior counselor; Mike Cox, scribe; Mike Taylor, junior advisor; Mel Colfelt, master of the Masonic Charity Lodge; Pat Kirpatrick, advisory board member; Andy Keil, past master Counselor; and Steve Lind, senior counselor.

A plaque, which will be embedded at the base of the tree, was presented to the City Council by members of the Campbell Masonic Charity Lodge, sponsors of the DeMolay chapter.

FOR COMMERCIAL DEVELOPMENT

City may get new Bascom Ave. policy

After struggling for several hours on Monday night, the Planning Commission recommended the adoption of a firm city policy that would specify that all commercial development must front on Bascom Ave. and such commercial uses would be permitted only for a general depth of 300-feet.

The policy which will be forwarded to the City Council for implementation was a result of concern manifested by the Planning Commission over the problems that exist because of possible commercial encroachment on the residential streets off Bascom Ave.

What brought the matter to a head was the rezoning procedure that had been initiated by the Planning Commission which would change the commercial zoning on a number of lots on residential streets off Bascom.

The parcels in question (on Fewtrell and E. Campbell Ave.) are now being used for residential purposes but are zoned commercial. They would revert to residential zoning by the Commission's action, if approved by the Council.

Involved also was a study of the commercial development on Bascom completed by the commercial committee of the Chamber of Commerce, headed by Holly Vollenweider.

Residents on E. Campbell Ave. also had indicated concern over any extension in depth of the commercial zoning on Bascom and, in the opposite camp, were owners of the parcels on E. Campbell Ave. that were earmarked for rezoning to residential. The property owners maintained that it was unfair to downgrade the lots.

The policy statement that was adopted was basically the same as that recommended by the Chamber of Commerce, except that the Planning Commission version specified that commercial developments must "front" on Bascom and "may be" instead of "shall be" permitted for only 300-feet.

The four conditions suggested by the CofC which the Commission approved followed previous city policies.

Following the adoption of the policy statement, the Commission then proceeded to recommend the zone change (to residential) for the parcels on Fewtrell and for the property on the north side of E. Campbell Ave. to the rear of the new California

IN A FRAME AT POST OFFICE

Nixon disappears

MISSING--Postmaster Bill Jennings points to the vacant space on the wall of the Campbell post office lobby where, until last weekend, a picture of President Richard Nixon was hanging in a brand new frame.

Sometime during the weekend, the picture of the president, frame and all, was removed by unknown individuals.

Until the thieves are apprehended, obviously, their party affiliation cannot be determined. But they were selective.

They left the picture of the postmaster general, which was in a similar new frame as that of the president.

The post office lobby has just undergone a repainting job and Postmaster Jennings had purchased new frames for the pictures of the two dignitaries that grace the walls of most post offices throughout the country.

So based on the m.o, the frame, in this case, was incidental.

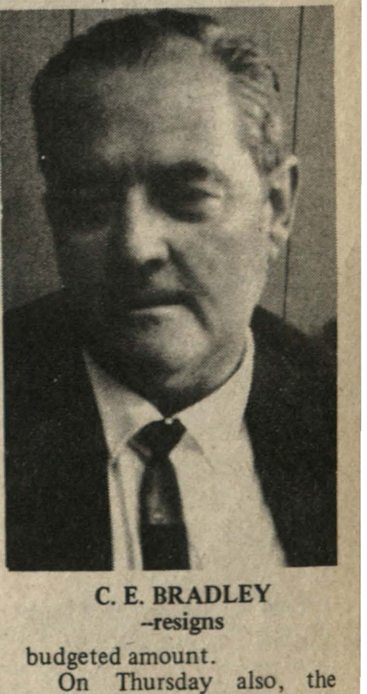
Board to act on resignation of CUSD business manager



C. E. BRADLEY
--resigns

On the agenda for action at the trustees' meeting of the Campbell Union (elementary) School District this Thursday, June 22, is the letter of resignation of C.E. Bradley, district business manager.

The notation under "resignations" on the agenda lists Bradley's date of resignation as December 30, 1972 and his date of employment as May 1, 1952.

The board will meet at 7 p.m. in the administration building.

Bradley, by letter, informed the board sometime ago that he was planning to resign but the date of resignation has not previously been officially announced.

Superintendent Jim D'Avis some weeks ago reported that the district was seeking applicants for the position of business manager. The deadline for filing for the job is Friday, June 23. The advertisement specifies that the annual salary range is $23,263 to $26,365.

Next Thursday, the board is also expected to award the contract for blacktopping various school yards, provided the low bid falls within the budgeted amount.

On Thursday also, the board is scheduled to adopt three preliminary special fund budgets, building, cafeteria and children's center. The preliminary general budget that was adopted in April did not include the special funds.

Superintendent D'Avis has

Editorial

City fire service

After four hours of discussion at an unofficial public hearing, the City Council last week unanimously voted not to consolidate with the Central Fire District to retain this city's department.

We commend the City Council for this action.

It has been more than a year since the Council directed staff to make a feasibility study of the consolidation issue. A comprehensive report on the subject was first submitted by City Manager Bob Stephens in October, 1971.

Subsequently, those advocating consolidation submitted material. A further summary on the question was presented just prior to the hearing on June 13.

Thus ample time had been given the Council to study all the ramifications involved in consolidation of the fire services with the county fire district and to weigh the advantages and disadvantages.

In addition, four hours were spent at the hearing when arguments pro and con were presented by city and county fire department officials as well as others who were in attendance.

It seems to us that no useful purpose could be gained by prolonging the decision on the issue any longer.

We were pleased then that the Council decided at the close of the hearing to make a definite decision.

There is no question in our mind that letting the issue hang fire any longer would have been a disservice to the community and to the fire department.

Now that the matter is settled by Council vote, the city can move ahead with any future plans for fire department that, obviously, while the subject was being studied would have had to be held in abeyance.

Although we are somewhat critical of the length of time the matter was pending, we also feel that airing the matter of consolidation as opposed to the retention of this city's own department was a worthwhile endeavor.

We think it is also important to point out that there was no "legal" directive involved that forced the City Council to hold a public hearing on the question.

The hearing was strictly an "unofficial" one and the action of the Council could have taken place without it.

As a matter of fact, no action really had to be taken.

The city could have continued with the operation of its own department without the Council even openly or publicly presenting the question.

However, the Council saw fit to bring the issue out in the open to be scrutinized by the citizens of this community. That made good sense in our book, for it is the citizens who are affected.

The reports and hearing on the consolidation question brought the matter into focus. It not only allowed the councilmen to study and evaluate the various points but, in effect, gave the citizenry an understanding of the situation that could not have been obtained in any other manner.

Basically the action of the City Council emphasized that the City of Campbell would not benefit by merging its fire department with the county's Central Fire District either financially or in the level of services.

One point, for example, that was made clear was that Campbell's department offers a wider scope of services than the county district.

And probably the most telling blow of all was in the comparison of tax rates. The county district is dependent entirely on a property tax levied over the entire district, whereas the city has other sources of income available (sales tax and state subventions).

Thus, should any areas secede from the county district, the tax base would be smaller and the tax rate obviously would have to be increased to maintain the same services.

During the discussions at the hearing, some other valid points were made that have a direct bearing on the situation.

It was emphasized, for example, that the long-pending mutual aid assistance pact between Campbell and Central should be finalized without delay.

And it was also indicated by interested citizens of the community, that the city's department, although efficient and well-run, probably could be improved.

But the city could make the improvements, they emphasized, more advantageously on its own rather than through consolidation.

That seems to about sum it up.

THE UNSEASONABLE downpour on the day the Chamber of Commerce staged its fourth annual golf tournament did sort of spoil things in a way but it still was a fun-day for almost all concerned.

Of course, some got wetter than others.

There were a few hardy souls who finished the entire 18 holes.

However, the trophies and prizes were awarded on the basis of nine holes played, which of course, was a little confusing because it was a "shot-gun" affair, which means all the players teed off at different holes.

The rain-soaked participants enjoyed the day nevertheless.

That is, if one based one's opinion on the enthusiasm that was exemplified at the award dinner when the various prizes were handed out.

In all the confusion, the complete list of the winners got water-soaked or something.

As best we could determine, Al LaPlante, president of the CofC, won the trophy for CofC members in the Calli-away rating; Ira Kirkorian won the low net job and Jim Payne was tops for low gross.

Micky Morgan was awarded the trophy for low gross for non-members and Nick Aparicio picked up the award for the "worse golfer" for a non-member.

Low net trophy for a non-member went to Bud Johnson.

However, it was John Ruppel, administrative assistant to City Manager Bob Stephens who won the "highest honors" for the day.

It took some doing but Ruppel was head and shoulders above everyone else in the worst golfer category for CofC members.

Ed Fabbri, who had won that honor a couple of tournaments ago, didn't have a chance this time.

Ruppel was scored at 84. And that's for nine holes.

He really had to work at it.

Len Edholm, CofC manager, and we, however, should have been awarded some sort of joint consolation prize.

Both of us lost our water-soaked blue sweaters someplace that day.

We guess that could be called our cover-charge.

But we both felt pretty blue about it.

SOME TIME AGO AT ST. Lucy's, the Bishop of Ceylon spoke at all the masses and made an appeal for financial help for his diocese.

His appeal was well received and the response of the people was outstanding, something in the neighborhood of $3000.

That night the parish house was broken into. The special collection was the only thing taken.

Some days later Father Leonard Bose was notified that the sack containing the collection had been found near San Luis Dam in the Los Banos area.

Still in the sack were all the checks that the smarter parishioners had made out. Missing, of course, was the cash.

The sack and checks were returned to Father Bose.

So Father Bose, in the bulletin, listed the names on the checks and asked that the parish office be notified as to what disposition should be made of them (destroyed, returned, cashed).

There were 121 checks listed in the bulletin supplement.

There is a moral to this some place.

We contributed cash.

proposal, the engineering wing would be financed by the continuance of the 12-cent special tax that was levied last year to complete the furnishings of the city hall.

Other major projects listed include a $267,250 appropriation for the development of Rincon Park and eight neighborhood parks. The development will be financed from $167,125 in park bonds plus a federal grant of $100,125.

In addition, $25,000 has been earmarked for completion of working drawings for the library.

Although the budget represents an increase over last year of $552,095, the city manager estimates that the budget can be financed by maintaining the present tax rate of $1.89 which allows for the special 12-cent levy, 59-cents for bond redemption and $1.18 for general purposes.

As of last Saturday, the councilmen had waded through the first 86 pages of the budget, taking care of all the departments with the exception of public works.

Only slight changes were made.

The Council slashed $2,440 from travel allowances for themselves; removed $1,200 from basement improvement; and dropped $585 from travel allowance of the city attorney.

Added was $1200 for retirement benefit for the city attorney; $250 for secretarial services for the Youth Commission and $1800 for civil defense.

The councilmen made no changes in the police department budget as submitted by Stephens of $686,420, an increase of $45,000 over last year or in that of the fire department of $508,800, an increase of $29,485.

The Chamber of Commerce was also allocated the same appropriation as last year of $10,000.

Before the final budget is adopted in August when the closing balances are firmed up and the assessed valuation figures are submitted, other modifications will probably be made in the budget, based on priority items.

Although the budget adoption will be the major item on the Council's agenda next Monday, a reassignment plan for the fire department administration personnel has also been submitted by Stephens.

Under the new plan, the titles of training officer and fire prevention officer have been changed to battalion chiefs. The position of fire marshal has been eliminated and a new position of administrative aide has been added.

On the agenda also is the question of the awarding of the city insurance contract. Action on the matter was deferred from the last meeting after three bids had been submitted.

Action also is expected to be taken on the awarding of the contract for signalization of the intersection at Hacienda and Winchester, based on the bids that will have been opened before the meeting.

Masses to change at St. Lucy's

Effective on Sunday, July 2, a new Mass schedule will go into effect at St. Lucy's Catholic Church, Father Leonard Bose, pastor, has announced.

There will be one less Mass on Sunday morning.

There will be no change, however, in either the Saturday 5:15 p.m. Mass or on Sunday evening at 7 p.m.

Starting on July 2, the new Sunday morning schedule will be 7, 9, 10:30 and 12 noon.

ministrative assistant to the city manager, who called on the pro and con speakers, on an alternating basis.

First to speak for consolidation was a tandem combination of Mike Johnson and Gerald Eller, representing the Campbell Firefighters union. They said the union was overwhelmingly for consolidation.

Prior to the speeches from the floor, Attorney David W. Leahy, representing the county council of union firefighters, came to the mike to urge the Council to continue negotiations and to leave the door open for consolidation.

The attorney was also critical of the editorial in The Campbell Press against consolidation, claiming the local union was not against the city manager and was not conducting a selling campaign for consolidation.

First speaker against consolidation was Norman Johnson, manager of DeLuxe Check Printers, Inc. at 1551 Dell Ave., one of the largest industries in Campbell with a payroll of more than 200.

Johnson cited the many ways the Campbell Fire Department had assisted the firm, training and working with the company's own fire crew. He commended the department and maintained that nothing could be gained by consolidation. If improvements were to be made, they could be made by the city, he added.

LETTERS

Two members of the Central fire department, Dave Hamilton and Ken Bitzer, both residents of Campbell, also spoke for consolidation. Bitzer also submitted 15 form letters that had been signed by local businessmen or residents favoring consolidation.

Prior to the discussion, Homer Hyde, of Campbell Water Co., E.M. (Doc) Arends, Campbell Lumber Co., and Mr. and Mrs. George Adamson had submitted letters against consolidation.

Holly Vollenweider, representing the Chamber of Commerce, informed the Council that the CofC was opposed to consolidation and Mrs. Jeanette Watson, also speaking against consolidation, pointed out the city and its citizens would lose local control if the fire department merged with central.

LOCAL CONTROL

In answer to the statement that Campbell would get one representative on the district fire board and thus have some say in the district operation, Mrs. Watson compared that to the county library board setup that now exists.

"It is the county supervisors who run the district," Mrs. Watson pointed out, "and the City Council is certainly well aware of the problems that exist between the city and the supervisors with respect to the library. And why should we expect it to be any different with the fire district?" she asked.

"I, for one," she concluded, "do not want to say our fire department operate in that manner."

One of the final speakers was Mrs. Margaret Shafer, of 485 Waldo Road, who advocated the consolidation of all emergency services. She maintained that it was unfair for citizens to have to specify what city they were in when reporting an emergency.

COUNCILMEN

Before voting, individual councilmen presented their opinions on the matter. Mayor Podgorsek and Councilman Ralph Doetsch conducted a vigorous dialogue on the question of further delay. Podgorsek took exception to Doetsch's suggestion that the question should be submitted to the voters.

Councilman Paul emphasized that it was important to all concerned that the long-pending mutual aid pact between Central and Campbell should be finalized without delay. He suggested to Stephens and to Chief Kirby that they move ahead immediately in that field.

Councilman Rusty Hammer summed up the feelings of the majority of the Council, when he said that, in his opinion, it was not to the city's advantage to consolidate with Central and that, he felt, improvements would be better made by the city.

"WHAT A LAUGH!"

Dear Sir:

What a laugh!

Now the citizens and ignorant uninformed have been accorded the great benefit and high privilege of receiving their man Martin's perceptive and erudite analysis of the defeat of school tax election.

Isn't it amazing about these men, Martin and Wadley? They, probably more than any other single factor, have been responsible for the defeat of the tax election and the erosion of public confidence and respect for our teacher organizations.

Yet, Martin has the affrontery to "analyze" the election for us, insulting in the process the entire community, the Chamber of Commerce, the taxpayers, citizens groups --- everybody! Everybody except Martin and Wadley, the two people most instrumental in the defeat of the election. People who by their intemperate, scurrilous and at times -- bordering on the slanderous -- public statements -- have all but destroyed respect for the once highly regarded teachers' groups.

It appears to me that instead of saying as Martin does to the Chamber of Commerce "too little, too late" we might charge these men Martin and Wadley with "too much, too often!"

They may yet achieve that which I would sincerely hate to see happen -- the defeat of the NEXT tax election.

Savings and Loan.

These parcels, it was pointed out, would not meet the requirements under the new policy.

Attorney John M. Chargin, representing Mrs. Anna Tock, owner of property on E. Campbell Ave. that was being rezoned, argued to no avail that the zone change would work a hardship on his client.

The Commission continued the rezoning action for the lot at 1062 E. Campbell directly behind La Fonda and owned by the Martin family estate, owners of La Fonda and other commercial buildings on Bascom.

Maurice Martin, representing the estate, had submitted a site plan for development of the lot in question which would tie it in with the estate's other Bascom development. The Commission decided to wait until the site plan met the new policy before acting on the zone change. Martin agreed to the continuance.

In other actions, the Commission:

APPROVED plans submitted by George R. Pratt for a warehouse at 360 White Oaks and plans for a retail travel trailer and camper sales yard for Garland J. Spears at 175 Curtner.

APPROVED plans for a free-standing sales building in the Kirkwood Plaza for Fotomat and plans for an office addition for N.P.L. Associates at 477 Division.

APPROVED the modified landscape plans for Federated Department Stores at 600 E. Hamilton.

GRANTED a use permit for the Church of God of Prophecy to conduct a day nursery in the church building at 250 S. Virginia and for Jim Rector to convert a residential building at 166 W. Campbell into an office.

DROPPED without prejudice the application for approval of a storage yard submitted by W. W. Martin at 180 Kennedy Ave.

CONTINUED for 30 days the zone change hearing on property at 973 Apricot which is also affected by the new Bascom Ave. policy that the Commission adopted.

The results of the tax rate election on July 25 will be known at that time. On July 25, the voters will decide whether the $2.55 tax rate should be maintained. If the issue fails to gain a majority, the district tax rate will revert to $1.80.

The building budget calls for $2,644,002 for 1972-73 as compared to $2,791,025 for 1971-72. The cafeteria budget lists $347,000 for 1972-73 as compared to $423,205 this year and the children's center is set at $145,220 for 1972-73. The 1971-72 budget was $125,418.

D'Avis has also suggested that the annual school board reorganization meeting, when a president, vice-president and clerk will be elected, should be held on Thursday, July 13.

A current financial status of the district has been submitted by Bradley. In his report, Bradley suggests that the district will come very close to the original estimate of total income of approximately $10.2 million in spite of some losses attributed to a declining A.D.A.

Campbell artist loves her hobby

Bernita Dodge's personal aura is warm and enthusiastic. And her paintings show it.

"I love colors" enthuses the Campbell artist in a soft voice as she moves towards a table covered with batik fabric designs in her home-studio, 2341 Montezuma Dr.

Acrylic paintings and batik fabric designs are the favorite media of the artist who recently finished a month-long showing in Villa Montalvo's Gallery.

Fresh, bright colors; reds, oranges and cooler shades of blue, brown and gold flowed through the sensitive, trim understatements of nature scattered around the Montalvo Gallery.

"I like bold colors, but don't think they need to create bold paintings."

What kind of mood does she want to create for the viewer?

"A calming mood. A soft, quiet mood. Some place they've been." says the slender, short-haired artist.

And very often, Mrs. Roger Dodge's acrylics and batiks are a fresh record of some place she has been - as evidenced by the painting titles, "Spring Desert," "Amador August" and "Pescadero Flowers."

While her husband, Roger, the Los Gatos town surveyor, was in the army, Mrs. Dodge traveled with him, and she has never shaken the journeying habit.

Small, weather roughened villages in Nevada and in California's historic mining lode are among the favorite haunts of the young couple, who also return to their native Nebraska each summer.

Along the way, Bernita keeps quickly sketched notes of the fields and sky and people, to use later in her artwork.

"Unless I've been there... it's like pulling hair...I don't have the feeling," says the Campbell artist, who has a distaste for commissions.

"I might as well paint for myself."

But Bernita Dodge does get "the feeling" from the places she loves -- and conveys it in an interesting, and often unusual, way.

"I'm intrigued by round paintings...or anything except a rectangular one," she laughs.

Then, suddenly serious, the slender pixie brunette studies the toes of her brightly dyed tennis shoes, "If you aren't willing to try something outlandish you become stagnant."

Her belief in experiment takes the form of round paintings, velvet batiks, an impressionistic, splatter technique and, most exciting -- a corner painting.

"Spring Blooming," a pastel portrayal of an orchard full of delicate exploding blossoms, was designed to fit into a corner of the Montalvo Gallery.

Though Mrs. Dodge loves to experiment, her innovations are not reckless, but are backed by a fund of experience which she shares with young and old in batik and silk screen classes she teaches at the Country Store, Los Gatos.

She also shares her talents with her children, Deena, Donita and Daryn, who like to make batiks with their mother's vat and procion dyes.

Mrs. Dodge also designs and dyes most of her youngsters' clothing as well as making her own tunics.

Her artist-knack extends far beyond her own circle of family and near-by students through the paintings she has displayed in numerous art fairs, one-man shows and in several California state fairs.

An active member and recent president of the El Gatito Co-operative Gallery, her most recent exhibit was at the Saratoga Rotary Club's annual festival on Sunday, May 6.

Her knowledge of art is pulling Bernita Dodge into another field of endeavor.

In 1970 she had a silk screen article published in Textile Crafts, a quarterly magazine.

Her fulfilling and exciting hobby started for the Campbell artist when she was a girl living on a farm in Lexington, Nebraska.

Though her art abilities weren't encouraged by her parents, thinking the field "Too Bohemian," Bernita got her foot into the larger area of fine arts by playing a tuba in her high school band.

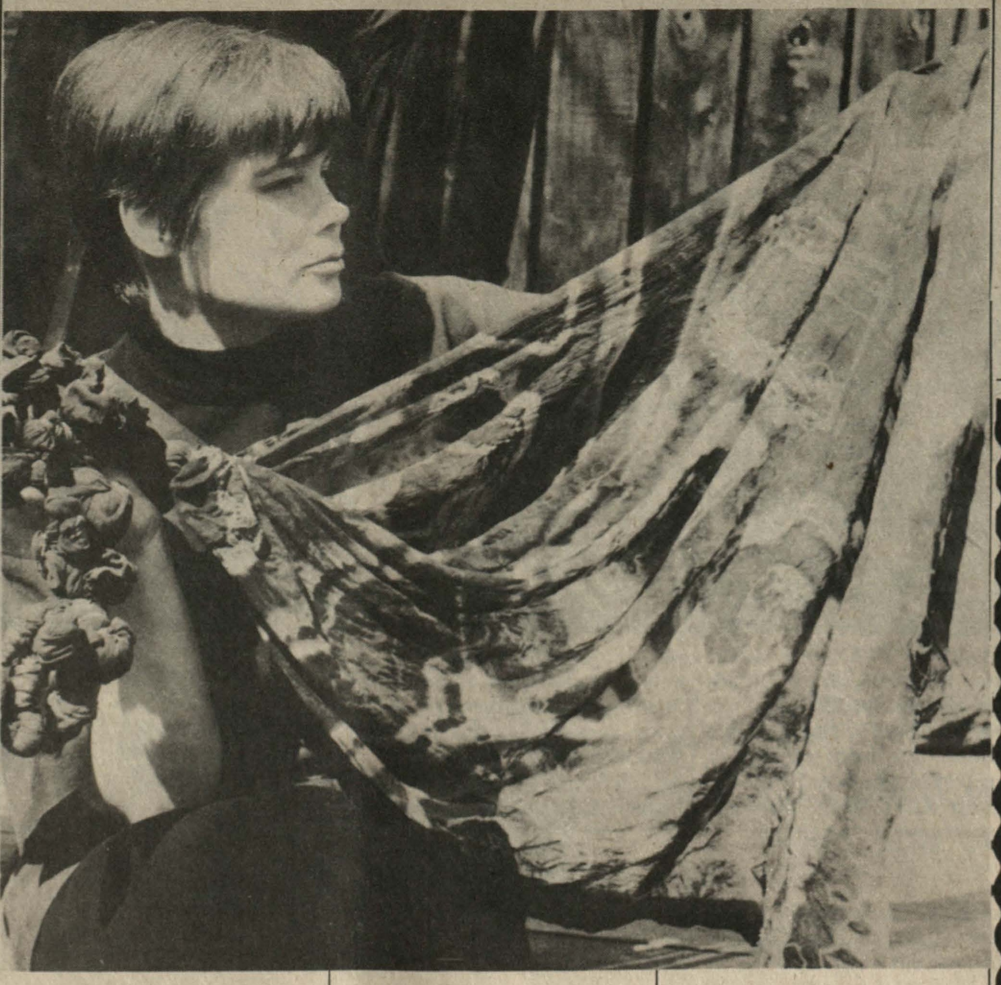
Not long after high school she married Roger Dodge, then a photographer who worked for a small newspaper in the same Nebraska town.

After studying engineering at an army school in Washington, D. C., Dodge brought his wife to California.

In Manteca, Dodge was an assistant superintendent of public works. He completed his engineering education at the college of Marin and Bernita spent 3½ years studying art at a private school in Stockton.

Wherever the couple traveled, Bernita took art classes, pottery painting, crafts, printing -- the works, simply because she loves it.

That fund of knowledge may pay off in a special way for Bernita Dodge, as she is hoping to share some of her latest innovations in a national magazine.



TIE-DYE -- Bernita Dodge, 2341 Montezuma Drive, stretches a tie-dye in her back yard. Batik and acrylics are other areas that the widely-shown Campbell artist has delved into. One of her batiks was offered at the recent KQED Auction. Her work was also on display at the Villa Montalvo Gallery.

Young at 90

Fifty relatives and friends gathered recently to honor Edward Alario at his Vivian Lane home on his 90th birthday.

Planning the event were his wife, Angeline and four children, Mrs. Joseph Aversente of Campbell; George Alario of Sunnyvale; Mrs. Charles Wisler of San Jose and Michael Alario of San Jose.

Among the guests were Alario's sister, Mrs. Mary Diaz of Santa Clara; his nephew, Anthony Amabile and Mrs. Alario's sister, Mrs. Josephine Lamarra.

A resident of San Jose and Campbell area for the past 84 years, Alario was for many years a well-known fruit buyer, retiring in 1950.

Since his retirement, he has devoted himself to gardening, and still cares for a half acre of apricots at his former home on Race St. in San Jose.

Alario and his wife also raise all their own vegetables. They are members of the Golden Wedding Club and the American Association of Retired Persons.

According to one of his children, he only wants to know one thing--when is he going to get old?

Couple wed in evening ceremony

The Cambrian Park Church of the Nazarene was the setting for the evening double ring ceremony uniting Rita Lynn Mayne and David Hamilton Otth.

The bride, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack E. Mayne, 905 Sweetbriar Dr , carried an ivory white nosegay accented with pale pink rosebuds in the recent ceremonies conducted by Reverend Vernon Wilcox.

A candlelight-colored gown, in an Elizabethan style with pink ribbon and Venetian lace trimming the empire bodice, leg-o-mutton sleeves and high neckline, was worn by the bride.

Among the attendants, all attired in gowns of pale pink taffeta and carrying baskets of vari-colored flowers, was Dixie Mayne of San Jose, the 19-year-old sister of the bride.

Other attendants were Marcie Williams and Sue McMullen, both of San Jose, Holly Hurley and Sally Jones.

The bridegroom, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. Rabone, of Yorba Linda, chose Robert L. White as best man.

Ushers were John Otth, brother of the groom; Craig White and Mickey Mayne, brother of the bride.

Music for the evening ceremony was provided by Mike Chavez, organist; and Debi White and Marc Wayne, who sang a duet.

Watching their children wed were Mrs. Jack E. Mayne, attired in a three-piece lavender suit with gray fox trim, and Mrs. Arthur J. Rabone, who wore a blue and white floral dress.

Following the wedding, guests enjoyed a four-tierred cake in the church's reception hall.

The couple, who are living in Pasadena, teach a third grade boys Sunday school class together at the First Church of the Nazarene, Pasadena, and they are both members of a ski club.

The new Mrs. Otth, a graduate of Camden High School and of Pasadena Nazarene College, works as an architect's receptionist in Pasadena.

Her husband, a graduate of Florida State University, holds a Master's degree from West Coast University, Los Angeles, and works as a mechanical engineer for the Jet Propulsion Lab, Pasadena.

Campbell parents watch as Navy son becomes doctor

What would you do for a change of pace if you retired from the Navy as a Commander with 20 years service? Look for an easy academic job?

Corwin Olds didn't. He enrolled in one of the stiffest academic courses available -- the four year medical school grind.

On May 28, The George Washington University School of Medicine added the M.D. degree to Corwin A. Olds' name.

On deck to witness the ceremonies were Dr. Olds' parents, Brigadier General and Mrs. Corwin H. Olds, of 210 Second St., Campbell. General Olds is a retired Army chaplain and minister-emeritis of Campbell Congregational Church. Mrs. Olds is the Treasurer of the City of Campbell.

When the new doctor entered medical school as a freshman, he was often mistaken for a professor. But he plugged away at the exacting course which he said was harder than he'd ever thought it could be.

He sees similarities between medical and military service, with the emphasis on performance and dedication.

Dr. Olds is a former Navy pilot, who has served as Nuclear Assistant to the Associate Director and Head of the Research Naval Ordnance Laboratory.

Service club plans meeting

The Women's Service Club of Campbell will end their year with a luncheon and installation of officers at the Village House, 320 Village Lane, Los Gatos, on Wednesday, June 28, at 1:15 p.m. New officers are Mrs. Floyd Arnold, president; Mrs. S.W. Milledge, first vice-president; Mrs. Oliver Buehner, second vice-president; Mrs. Gerald Snider, secretary; Mrs. Everett Frye, treasurer and Mrs. Boyd Fair, historian. Members of the committee are Mrs. E.R. Miller and Mrs. Roy Sindel. Mrs. L.W. Besack, president, will preside.

ORT

The San Jose Chapter Women's American ORT will hold an Installation-Honor Roll Luncheon at Del Vecchio's restaurant in San Jose, on Thursday, June 22. Call Tana Golden for reservations.

"GRADUATE"---Victoria Candelaria holds honorary degree of completion given to her by San Tomas School in thanks for her 21 years of help to the school.

A "different" graduation

Victoria Candelaria of Campbell was given a special and unique graduation party on June 7.

For the past 21 consecutive years Vickie and her husband, Nino, have had at least one child attending San Tomas School. This June the Candelaria's youngest child, Eva, graduates from San Tomas.

In remembrance of her innumerable hours of volunteer help, Vickie was awarded an honorary degree of completion by the school principal, Jim Bryan. She was also presented a graduation hat and a charm bracelet with a charm for each of her six children.

Friends and teachers who have worked with Vickie at one time or another over the past years attended the special party held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Boyack.

CAN YOU READ THIS HEADLINE FROM 20 FEET AWAY?

Hundreds of thousands of people --- those who don't have 20/20 vision and can't afford the luxury of eyeglasses --- have to answer "no" to this question.

You, however, can help to change the plight of these indigent persons throughout the world by bringing your no-longer-needed eyeglasses to us.

As soon as we have collected a goodly number of the glasses, we will pass them on to New Eyes for the Needy in Short Hills, N. J., for sorting and testing and distribution to the poor. And thus something useless to you will become the key in helping someone else to lead a more useful life.

BILL SMEED EXPOSED
CAMPBELL PRESS

TOP BRASS PAPER "BOYS".. Former Councilman Bill Smeed, who served eight years as a councilman and two years as a planning commissioner, recently was honored at a barbecue at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. George Vierhus on Ridgeley Drive. The affair was jointly hosted by those who had worked closely with Smeed in his city activities during the past decade.

One of the features of the informal backyard barbecue was the distribution of a special "extra" of The Campbell Press delivered by the paper "boys" pictured above with Smeed. From left to right, Mayor Bill Podgorsek, Smeed, Homer Hyde and Don Hebard.

Under a glaring headline of "BILL SMEED EXPOSED" the "extra" presented a full page of pictures, with appropriate captions, taken from the files of The Press and depicting Smeed in various poses as he carried out his duties as a city official during the past 10 years.

SURPRISED---Former Councilman and Mayor Bill Smeed and his wife, Beverly, read The Campbell Press "extra" that was distributed at a barbecue hosted by those who had worked closely with Smeed during his 10-years of city service. The pictorial "extra" presented pictures of Smeed, taken from the files of The Press, showing him in various action shots as he did his duties during the 10-year period.

INSTALLATION---Honored at Bethel No. 298 installation were Sandy Swensen, senior vice-president; Debbie Evans, honored queen, and Michele Teal, junior princess.

Local Bethel has new Queen

"Everything is Beautiful" was the theme as Debbie Evans was installed as Honored Queen of Bethel No. 298.

The installation was held at the Masonic Temple in Santa Clara on Saturday, June 10.

The first vocal solo was "Jesus Loves the Little Children", sung by Julie and Laura Smith along with Cheryl, Laura, Jan and Jill Evans. The other solo, "Everything is Beautiful" was sung by Lori Basuino.

Debbie Evans' colors were pink, orange and green. These colors were used to decorate the hall.

Other honored girls included Sandy Swensen, senior princess; Michele Teal, junior princess; Cathy Heisch, guide; and Kim Stone, marshal.

IN THE SNOWS---Hiking Club members pause during a recent climb of Matterhorn Peak on the Sierra Crest. Pictured are Craig Stafford, Fred Kalish, Steve Nobel, Rachel Orovitz and Anita Garses.

Old eyeglasses can be used for needy

When you opened up that seldom used desk drawer last week and shuffled around the contents, did it occur to you that those old eyeglasses which you pushed to the back of the space might be useful to someone else?

John Stander of Campbell Memorial Chapel can see that those eyeglasses get put to good use.

A non-profit, non-sectarian organization in Short Hills, New Jersey, called New Eyes for the Needy, Inc., collects discarded eyeglasses and sorts and tests them for distribution to those who cannot purchase their own eyewear.

In addition to glasses, the New Eyes organization asks for donations of cataract lenses, artificial eyes, soft glass cases, and broken jewelry which contains any bits of precious metals.

Unbroken plastic framed glasses and sunglasses are used to fill specific orders from medical missions and welfare agencies throughout the world.

The metal collected is sold for refining, and money collected is used to have prescription lenses ground, as well as to meet other expenses.

No funds are solicited by New Eyes, as their work is done in donated quarters, entirely by a volunteer staff.

Campbell Memorial Chapel will accept eyeglass donations at any time at their office at 231 E. Campbell Avenue. The firm, which is a member of the Order of the Golden Rule, the world's largest controlled membership organization of funeral firms, will then send the glasses on to New Eyes.

COLLEGE PLANS

Anne M. Zimmerman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Percy L. Zimmerman, 392 Nottingham Way in Campbell, has been admitted to Chapman College beginning in the fall semester of 1972. Anne is a sophomore education major.

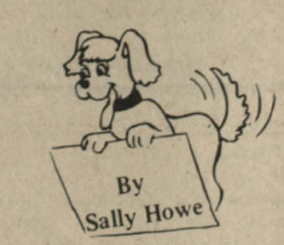
Bringing up fido



By Sally Howe

Summer, as we've noted before, can be a trying time for a dog.

His delight in having extra playmates now that school is out, can easily change to dismay.

While his own family may know how to treat him with kindness and respect, strangers are not always as considerate.

Sometimes a dog is better off if he is removed from the center of activity if it turns out that your yard is the playplace of the neighborhood.

"Oh," you say, "that's his pleasure! He loves being with the kids."

For a while, yes, but when summer boredom sets in, or the game lags, youngsters often look around them for a source of amusement.

Sometimes, the "goat" is a younger brother or sister, who at least, can howl their display at any rough treatment.

The family dog or cat may not be so lucky.

If he is selected as the object of attention, no matter how degrading or uncomfortable, many people feel he is supposed to tolerate whatever treatment he receives!

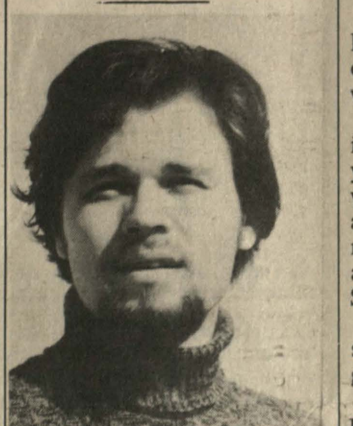
NOT SO!

No child or adult should be encouraged to think that a dog likes to be a wheelbarrow or nailed up in a box or dressed in doll clothes.

A dog is not a doll. He has feelings of pain; he gets hungry, thirsty and tired.

And a too tired dog can sometimes only express his frustration in one way---by growling, or, if seriously provoked, by nipping.

Result? The dog ends up with a reputation he doesn't deserve and you end up being the family who harbors a "nasty" or "vicious" pet.



DRAMA GRADUATE--John Schmedes, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Schmedes of 775 North Central Ave., has received his Master's in dramatics from the University of California at Riverside.

John has appeared in over 30 productions in college and community theaters. He has just finished directing the Anthony Newly musical "Stop the World---I Want to Get Off." He plans this summer to direct one-act plays in Los Angeles.

Garden Club has potluck

A potluck luncheon will follow the meeting. Members are asked to bring their own table service.

OES to have "Aloha Night"

Campbell Chapter 553 Order of Eastern Star will have an "Aloha Night" on June 23, at 8 p.m. It will be held in the Odd Fellows Hall, 276 East Campbell Avenue. Mrs. Thelma Fitch is Worthy Matron and Vince Volkey is Worthy Patron. There will be no meetings in July and August.

Red Cross seeks funds

The Santa Clara Valley American Red Cross hopes to collect at least $14,567 to assist victims of the disasterous flash flooding in Rapid City, South Dakota. The effort is part of a $5 million nationwide drive.

"This tragedy comes at a time when the Red Cross disaster funds have been wiped out by recent floods in southwest Texas, Kentucky, Buffalo Creek, West Virginia and the increasingly serious situation in Oregon, Idaho and Montana," Gordon Bent, Santa Clara Valley Red Cross Director of Disaster and First Aid Programs, said.

All contributions should be sent to Red Cross South Dakota Disaster Fund, 333 McKendrie Street, San Jose.

LEADING LADY -- Jeannie Traina, a West Valley College drama major is the leading lady in the NG-Phoenix Productions' presentation of the Rodgers and Hart musical, "Babes in Arms," scheduled to open in the Los Angeles Prentiss Brown Auditorium on June 30. DARTING AROUND with Tom Carroll

The dart Board was set up between stacks of beer cases and the bottling equipment at the Steam Beer Brewing Co. in San Francisco.

The event was a match between the Northern California Dart Assn. All-Star Team and a hand-picked team called the No-Stars. The No-Stars were composed of former champions and other top dart shooters that didn't make this year's All-Star Team.

The match was played under the same rules as the normal All-Star match which will be held July 1 at the Melody Hall in San Lorenzo.

This is a 25 point match, ten singles at one point each, five doubles at two points each and a 1001 team game for five points. The order of the games was changed for this match. The doubles were played first followed by the team game. At this point the All-Stars were ahead 8-7.

The No-Stars came back strong in the singles and after tying moved ahead of the All-Stars 13-11. The No-Stars had now won the match but the last game was played with the final score of 13-12.

STEAM BEER

After the match, Fritz Maytag, the host for this event took the players and spectators on a tour of the brewery. Anchor Steam Beer dates back to 1896. Some of the equipment used today is over 70 years old.

Steam beer is a product of the Gold Rush, the Civil War and the temperate climate of San Francisco. The Gold Rush brought thirsty men to the area and the Civil War delayed railroad construction. The railroads could have supplied ice. As a result San Franciscans brewed a special beer that could be prepared at normal cellar temperatures.

In its heyday there were hundreds of steam beer breweries, with 27 in San Francisco alone. When Prohibition came along there were only seven, of which Anchor is the lone survivor.

Only barley malt and hops are used in the making of steam beer. Other beers use corn, rice and other grains to lighten the brew. Steam beer has a deep amber color. It is naturally carbonated, much like champagne, by using a traditional method of secondary fermentation called Kraeusening.

The pressure of natural carbonation which slowly developed in the barrels before they were sold is where the beer gets its name.

Tours of the brewery are available by appointment only Monday through Friday by calling 863-1495. The Steam Beer Brewing Co. is located at 541 - 8th Street in San Francisco. The plant and tasting room form a veritable museum of the early brewing art.

They have been brewing twice a week but the schedule is to be stepped up to four days a week. One of San Francisco's more interesting places. Mugs!

Refresher for nurses offered

Admission information and applications may be obtained from the admission and records office 51 E. Campbell Ave., Campbell, or by calling the college at 379-1733, ext. 64.

Bicycle accidents show big increase

The surging popularity of bicycling revealed itself in one tragic fashion last year---injuries and fatalities among bicycle riders jumped 34 per cent over the 1970 figure and 55 per cent over the 1969 total.

"The alarming factor is that bicycle statistics run counter to the overall trend which has seen injuries and deaths in all vehicle accidents decline for the second straight year," California Highway Patrol Commissioner Harold W. Sullivan pointed out.

Numerically, bicycle accident victims increased from 5,517 two years ago to 6,391 in 1970 and 8,573 last year. Victims in all vehicle accidents dropped from 250,786 to 244,885 during the same two-year span.

A comparison of bike injuries and fatalities disclosed another significant trend---an increasing segment of the victims are in the 15 to 34 age group, the Commissioner said. In 1970, one-fifth of the bicycle accident victims were in this young adult category. Only one year later, this age grouping accounted for one-third of all victims.

Youngsters up to 14 still are the most frequent bicycle accident victims but they represented a smaller share of the total, declining from three-fourths of all victims in 1970 to just under two-thirds last year.

Although bicycle accident victims increased in both the 0-14 and 15-34 age groupings, young adults registered a far greater percentage rise---119 per cent compared to 11 per cent among youngsters.

"Expanding use of the bicycle for recreational and exercise purposes obviously is creating a new accident problem among young adults," Commissioner Sullivan said.

Highway Patrol analysis of bicycle accidents reveals that in most of the incidents, the bike rider is at fault. The rider usually commits one of three violations---riding on the wrong side of the road, turning improperly, or violating the motor vehicle driver's right of way. Failure to use the required light for night riding is also a contributing factor in many accidents.

"These violations indicate that the common denominator in most bicycle-motor vehicle collisions is the unexpected position or movement of the bicycle," the Commissioner said. "Drivers, for example, have always been schooled to expect vehicles moving in the opposite direction to be going by on their left.

A conveyance approaching head-on is an unusual and unexpected event. The bicyclist's error can be compounded by the driver's inability to see a bike as quickly as he might another motor vehicle.

"The high incidence of right-of-way violations suggests an even more serious problem: Bike riders generally disregard or are unaware of their responsibility to comply with vehicle laws which establish a method of safe operation for everyone who uses the highways.

"It is often suggested that bike riders should think like vehicle drivers. That's only part of the solution. Before a bicyclist can think like a driver, he must understand that laws which regulate driving also pertain to bicycling. The Vehicle Code says that rules of the road apply to bicycle riders---thus a bicyclist must know, for example, that a signal is required before he turns, that turns must be made from the proper lane, and that all traffic signs and signals must be obeyed," the Commissioner said.

In addition, the code sets forth several provisions which deal exclusively with bikes. A bicycle must be ridden as close to the right-hand edge of the roadway as practical, the operator may not carry a passenger on the handlebars, and he may not hold anything in his arms which prevents him from keeping at least one hand on the handlebar.

Bicycles must have certain equipment, too. At night, a headlamp emitting a white light visible from at least 300 feet in front, and a red reflector which can be seen at least 300 feet to the rear are required. The brake must be cabable of causing at least one wheel to skid on dry, level pavement, handlebars cannot be raised to a point where the operator's hands will be higher than his shoulders, and the pedal in its lowest position can be no more than 12 inches from the ground.

In addition, the operator must have a regular, permanent seat. Requirements dealing with handlebars, pedals and the seat relate to stability, has been a factor in some accidents.

The Patrol has long worked with elementary and junior high school youngsters through its "You Can't Stop on a Dime" demonstrations and other programs to demonstrate the necessity for safe riding practices. "Obviously emphasis on safety must be expanded to include the young adult group which is becoming increasingly involved in bicycle accidents," the Commissioner said.

"The Patrol is particularly concerned by the apparent philosophy that bike riders may disregard rules of the road as convenience dictates. The demonstration of this attitude by adults not only has the serious effect of increasing accidents, it also offers an undesirable example for younger riders who often are more impressed by what they see than what they are told.

"A bicycle-vehicle collision virtually always has more severe consequences for the bike rider because he is unprotected. As in driving, the avoidance of bicycle accidents hinges largely on alert, common sense operation combined with observance of rules of the road. The sharp rise in bike accidents clearly indicates the necessity for improved bicycle riding attitudes and performance," the Commissioner said.

Cubs build unique cart as participation reward

The seven dens of Cub Pack 317, Coventry School, aren't "recessing" for summer vacation.

In fact, the active group of 39 youngsters has nearly as many summer activities as they did winter ones.

Last Friday, the Cubs held their annual family picnic at Oak Meadow Park and before the summer is over, they'll take a train trip to San Francisco Zoo, have a beach party and a father and son outing.

The Cubs had an unusual project during the school year. Cubmaster Rudy Alcocer provided them a couple of wheels and an axle. The den who had the most parent participation at the monthly pack meetings was given "custody" of the wheels for the following month and encouraged to add to the framework.

The result was a "Flintstone" type push-cart which gives the scouters a great deal of pride and pleasure.

There are four dens and three Webelos in the pack. Den mothers are Mrs. Erma Oberquell, Mrs. Andrea Hall, Mrs. Gertie Piuenti, and Mrs. Sharon Milledge. Webelos are led by Tom Bispo, Dale Bjerke and Irvin Klein.

Information center offers citizen help

A federal information center in San Francisco now has toll-free lines for area residents seeking answers to questions on government agencies.

The center's role is to provide information or to direct persons seeking information to the correct federal agency or state or local government office.

Announcement of the new telephone service was made by Congressman Charles S. Gubser (Rep.-Calif.) who stated; "With the government process growing more and more complicated, I think this service bridges the gulf that too often separates the citizen from his government. It fulfills a great need for the individual who may be seeking help but doesn't know quite where to turn."

The San Francisco Information Center (FIC) is located in the lobby of the federal building, U. S. Courthouse, 450 Golden Gate Ave. The toll-free number is 275-7422 and will be available during regular business hours.

MUSIC---The "Dutch East India Company" will make the music for a Campbell High Teen Club dance on June 26. The dance will be held at the Campbell High School girls' gym from 8 to 11 p.m. The Monday night dance will cost teen club members $1 and non-members $1.50.

Little League plans dancing

"A Night In The Orient" theme will give Campbell Little League the flavor needed for dinner dancing at the Letterman's Club, 425 North Fourth St., San Jose on Saturday, June 24.

Happy hour will begin at 7 p.m. with a steak dinner following. Dancing to the music of the Life & Salvations will start at 9 p.m. until 1 a.m.

Wall-to-wall carpeting brings happiness wherever it goes. Floors in any room acquire a warm, friendly look. Carpeting perks up the decorating scheme with new color, texture and style. Carpeted floors are a welcome friend for tired feet and they help muffle noise to give your nerves a rest, too. And the right carpet will continue to give you and your family pleasure for years to come.
